NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

A DISEASE WITH A HUNDRED SYMPTOMS – Such is dyspepsia. It may be said to simulate almost every other complaint. Hot flushes and violent palpitations of the heart, which seem to indicate serious difficulty in the vital organs, are often caused solely by indigestion. A single dose of Bristol's Sugar-coated Pills will in that case be sure to afford relief. In fact they are always a safe and useful medicine, as they tend to reduce febrile action of every kind, without weakening the bodily powers. In all ailments the stomach, the liver, are more or less affected, either sympathetically or directly, and upon these organs the Pills operate most beneficially. cj—jel

THE NIGER'S MAILS.

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Paris, May 4th.

In France a wonder lasts but three days, in other countries nine; the late election promises to belong to the latter class, and, oddly enough, it is not the crushing majority obtained by M. Barodet that excites curiosity, but the number of electors who, having voted against him as the Man of Sin and the representative of Communism, are becoming converted to his views. Even M. Thiers does not discover in him the seven capital sins. The timely appearance of Barodet's photograph has contributed much to disarm Conservatives of their terror. It would require a political Linnæus to classify the several varieties of Republicans that we possess, commencing with those of a Royalist type, and ending with those of a Red, and all included in the 180,000 votes given to Barodet and the 136,000 to Remusat.

By a process of natural selection, the 27,000 votes given to Colonel Stoffel represent the combined forces of Henri V. and Napoleon IV., and truthfully coincide in the estimate formed of their hold on the citizens, in advance.

The results of the Provincial elections were equally as striking in favor of the Republic, as one and indivisible as you like, provided it be conservative: the best means to keep it so is to decide at once that the Monarchists are 'nowhere,' and, unable to build, they should, by dissolving the Assembly, be prevented from demolishing. There are various species of Iconoclasts.

It is not at all certain that M. Thiers will be equal to the new situation created by the recent elections. There is no mean in his character: he swings between two extremes—rashness and timidity. The Republican fit is said to be on him now. He has every prospect of being shipwrecked in home politics, and still cherishes the delusion that an Assembly, 'in extremis,' can make laws for a definite Constitution. There is less danger in hastening the dissolution of an unpractical Assembly than in allowing it to drag on an undesirable existence which, instead of converting the nation to Monarchy, irritates into Radicalism—where it has a right to go, if so inclined, however the step may be regretted. Will M. Thiers terminate his equivocal policy, and bell the cat by inviting the Assembly to name the day, the happy day, for its disappearance? To urge him to so act is the moral of the recent elections in a nut-shell. Pacts of Bordeaux, tight-rope systems of governing, conciliating what is irreconcilable—are all now used up. The ultra-Royalists ought to remember that Louis XVIII. reproved their intolerance by suddenly dissolving the Chambers in September, 1816, and convoking the Electoral Colleges the following month, which returned a Chamber quite in harmony with the wishes of the people. A similar act is now required. Louis Blanc has just brought out a significant pamphlet, in which Cromwell's plan of dissolving a Chamber and locking the doors is fully described. Indeed, the Versaillais might be addressed in the words of the Protector: "I tell you, you are no longer a Parliament; the Lord has done with you; He has chosen other instruments for carrying on His work."

No persons have shown any disposition to quit Paris in consequence of the decided voie of its citizens; on the contrary, visitors are more rapidly arriving, probably to take a last fond look at the capital. The inhabitants display no disposition to massacre one another, or burn streets and public buildings; they leave all this warm work to the city of Versailles, and would feel obliged by the Assembly breaking up, and not leave a wreck of itself behind. Some public writers in view of the disappearance of France, have resolved to make a tour round the world; they will return wiser and better men—it is to be hoped.

Fortunately political events do not interfere with the march of social life; dinner parties and balls are more numerous than ever; luxury is promising to surpass the halcyon days of the second empire. For example, ladies' costumes now sell for 3 to 400 francs in the fashionable shops, as easily as when the price was—long, long ago—but 50f; a promenade toilette costs at present from 800 to 1,000f, a ball dress 1,500f, and a bonnet of the very latest fashion 126f. Prices at hotels, restaurants and theatres are ever going up, and a tour in the Bois de Boulogne will prove that there is no falling off either in numbers or splendour of the Ladies of the Lake. Paris is like the Austrian monarchy, stronger after every defeat. Other evidence that we are not going to the dogs; there is a decided increase in the display of armorial signs on the part of the shopkeepers, in the sense that such tradesmen have placed themselves under the patronage of some grandee, as the Spanish dealer or Italian brigand does under the auspices of the Virgin or some Saint. Athenians here, in their 'inner consciousness' laugh at the ruse, but it pays to be a purveyor, effected through the instrumentality of a valet or a 'noble bagman,' to some prince or archduke. Tailors, hatters, bootmakers, milliners, &c., all run after the bauble—proof that it must pay. No one ever dreams of being barber or upholster to the President of the Republic, but let an emperor purchase a box of matches to light his cigar, or the Sultan a "mouchoir," or a princess have her chignon re-touched or her teeth re-set, up over the shop goes the escutcheon of the ephemeral customer. Paris is at present covered with these outward and visible signs of an inward aristocratic connection. The wags assert that many of these emblems cannot be found in the Almanac de Gotha, which in any case does not affect business. Better, many manufacturers pass the best part of their lives endeavoring to be decorated by some potentate, no matter whether it be the Mikado or the Queen of Madagascar; the 'order' once obtained serves as the trade-mark of the house. Circumstance curious, these bagatelles disappear as if by magic on the breaking out of a revolution, and return as quickly when the tempest has subsided.

Intelligence about Spain is about as difficult to arrive at as information respecting the reported infirmities of His Holiness, or the circular tour of M. Thiers in France. The only military event to chronicle is, that the soldiers having had their rations increased the same is about being done for the cavalry horses, which threatened a kind of "food not" by refusing to eat their hay owing to its having become musty during the process of being compressed into balls before being duly fermented. For the future their "meat balls" will be prepared with care. Bazaine is as forgotten as the Germans, and promises to become like that noble prisoner of the Bastille, who so long accustomed to captivity pined away when set at liberty.

Some interesting letters arrive from that 'Land of Promise,' New Caledonia. On landing from the transport, the condemned found anything but the comforts of a home. Their dietary is the same as the soldiery, less the ration of wine; one pot and one drinking vessel are allowed to every group of ten prisoners, plus a spoon. In the night sleep is impossible, owing to the mosquitoes, and in the day from the effects of nostalgia. In the States it is sometimes necessary to shoot a settler, in healthy neighborhoods, to inaugurate a cemetery; in New Caledonia four natural deaths in one military district, a few days after landing, dispensed with such a necessity. An official attests the deposit of the remains in the grave, and then leaves the friends to speechify at will over the departed. 'Adieu, frère!' is all that is uttered—a brevity more eloquent than the harangues delivered at similar ceremonies at home.

The last will and testament, executed in 1865, of Napoleon III., has nearly passed unperceived. The codicil attached to that document, in the shape of the declaration of war against Prussia, is much better remembered by the French, whom, like his uncle, the ex-Emperor 'greatly loved.' That dynasty is now associated, not with Austerlitz, Ulm and Solferino, but with the three invasions it caused, and where Barkiss was more or less a willin' party. The nation has had enough of both uncle and nephew, and declines the legacy of the son.

An exhibition of shirt-collars dating from the last century is announced, as also a collection of boots, shoes and slippers belonging to celebrated individuals since the reign of Louis XIV.

Concerts are common in the open air, but this is not enough; a saloon-steamer has been fitted up as a concert hall, and during summer will 'walk the waters like a thing of life,' while an orchestra will discourse most excellent music and Divas warble their best.

A silent but veritable revolution has taken place in the fashionable world. Hitherto it has been the practice, when friends or acquaintances were about to leave town, to call on one another and leave a card, with the letters in pencil P.P.C —'pour prendre congé'—that is, "au revoir," I am setting out." At present, if that missive be left by the owner and no departure takes place within eight days, no umbrage is to be taken; but if a fortnight or a month elapses and there is no prospect of the departure, the P.P.C. is to be accepted as a notice to quit all visiting—a decision as definite and unchangeable as the laws of the Medes and Persians.

There is an agitation being set on foot to abolish postal cards. The loss will be a gain to the Post-office in point of revenue. The innovation is asserted to be unsuitable to the Parisian character, as the evil-doers are so witty and wicked that they adopt this plan for circulating slanders, for which there is no law to punish or repress. It never strikes the objectors that an unsealed letter can just as well be read by the maid and house porter as a card, and has the advantage of being more attractive—tempting.

The commissaries of police had established for their order, since several years, a burial fund, but so numerous have been the deaths since 1860 that the funds are exhausted, and such officials have to rely for last attentions on the parish.

Summer having arrived explains why French railway companies express their willingness to warm the second and third class carriages, by means of steam conducted from the engine under the tender, and distributed through the carriages by india-rubber tubes; the piping is laid under the seats, and each passenger can, by turning a cock, permit the steam to circulate in greater volume, the excess passing off by the brake. Trains will thus pull both before and behind; but if the india rubber machinery gets wrong, one may be 'cooked in his own juice' before succor arrives. It is a fresh argument for passengers insuring their lives when taking a ticket.

Hitherto the Gas Company has practised economy by lighting in some cases every second lamp, and in others none at all; an invention is announced, or rather an old one improved, by means of which economy can be effected without the sacrifice of brilliancy; it consists in dividing the burner into three branches, and placing behind each a concave reflector.

The Court of Rennes is occupied with a most singular and painful case of succession to property. In September 1870 M. Levainville, Prefect of Finisterre, accompanied by his wife, daughter, and four lady friends, went to view the great waves breaking on the cliffs; while the Prefect ascended a little higher to enable one of the ladies to obtain a better view, an enormous wave arrived and swept his wife, daughter, and three friends into the Ocean. The question raised is to ascertained whether the mother or the daughter perished first, as according to the priority of death, the property will revert to the wife's family, or her husband.

A very striking funeral has taken place, and deserves to be noticed—that of the parish priest of Saint Eustache, where he formerly assisted as a curate when Pius VII. celebrated mass there. He was a clergyman beloved by his parishioners, and considered himself the chaplain to the central markets. The market people followed his remains to the cemetery in thousands, and showed every feeling of sorrow. During the Commune he was three times arrested, but the market people compelled his liberation. The secret of his popularity was, he eschewed politics. Moral.

It is contemplated to establish a Lottery Building Company, to be conducted on the same principles as those which regulate the redemption of national loans, except in this case, the subscriptions would be sunk in purchasing and building on freeholds, and houses would be presented as the 'gros lot.' Since 1836 lotteries have been suppressed in France, although at that time the Government derived a revenue from them of twenty millions of francs yearly. It was Cardinal Mazarin who first introduced them into France from Italy.

THE USE OF CHEQUES.

Don Norberto de la Riestra has favoured us with the following highly pertinent remarks on the advantages that would accrue to our commercial community by the more general adoption of the English system of settling all large local transactions by payment in cheques. This paper has frequently advanced the same advice, and we are glad to see so important a subject taken up by such high authority.

Buenos Ayres 31st May 1873.

In the Times of the 2nd inst. we find, on the high authority of Sir John Lubbock, the following data as to the use made of cheques in the London Market, and which should be of interest to us here.

"the total of the operations of the Clearing House, or Office for Reciprocal Payments, in London, during the past six years amounted to—

1867.....	£ 3,257.411 000
1868.....	3.5..4.639.0 0
1869.....	3.720.623.000
1870.....	4.018 461.000
1871.....	5.359.722.000
1872.....	6.003.336.000

or in the last year to the fabulous sum of over "30,000 millions of hard dollars," while the total circulation of money in the United Kingdom is only 70 millions of pounds sterling in gold and silver, and about 40 millions in Bank notes.

It can thus be seen how the cheque saves the passing of money from hand to hand!

The preceding table shows that notwithstanding the advanced stage of English commerce in banking matters, the use of the cheque increases day by day, and the operations of the Clearing House have almost doubled since 1867.

If merchants, traders, and private persons who have the handling of money would but abolish the Sate, and lodge all their funds in the banks (which like the Provincial and the existing private banks offer the best security) and if we could accustom ourselves to make all our payments over 20 hard dollars by cheque, what an enormous sum would be left available for the needs of circulation? In addition we should gain in the following ways:—

1st. Saving of interest, or rather, a gain in interest, as we should have no money lying idle.

2nd. Saving the risk of having our safes robbed.

3rd. Saving of the risk of taking forged notes, and of the time now lost in counting and examining money.

4th. Security against our clerks losing money in the street, or their making away with it to foreign countries, as but too often happens.

5th. A gain for the Banks, which would hold separately enormous reserves to meet their engagements, as meeting at the Bolsa every day (as in the Clearing House) they could exchange the cheques received the day before, and only the balances would have to be paid in cash.

Finally we should speedily see abolished the primitive and prejudicial custom of leaving over all payments till Saturday, thus losing the day for any other kind of business, merely for the pleasure of seeing collectors rushing through the streets with an enormous sum of ready cash in their pockets.

Allow me therefore, in the interest of the community, to call the attention of Bankers, Merchants and the Public at large to this subject, and to seriously recommend to them a system so useful and safe as the general use of the Cheque for the settlement of daily monetary operations.

Yours truly,
Norberto de la Riestra.

A VOICE FROM PATAGONES.

Patagones, March 22nd, 1873.

As you are fully alive to the fact that people do exist who are pleased to read some little news about the Welsh families on the Rio Negro, therefore doubtless, you will not object to gratify them with a little information. If it was said that they last year succeeded better than any year previously, it must be acknowledged that as a whole they have been more successful this year; yet strange to say in the face of this success, the Welsh people here are almost all inclined to leave this place to return to the Chuput Colony, and no doubt some will do so very soon not because they so much prefer Chuput as a colony as it is their preference to living amongst their own countrymen and where they can feel themselves more homely than here. The Chuputarians determined not to come hitherto and more the pity; none of our countrymen seem to care about joining us at this place, so do not be too much surprised if we all go down to "Y Wladva Gymreig" unless a good number of the "Cymry" come hitherto before next harvest which we would prefer in some respects. That the Welsh here are 'getting on' is unquestionable, although they have to contend with obstacles, instance they have parted with some quantity of their wheat at the low price of $80 which they could sell at the town for $150 "but', for the 'want' of communication between the ostensible Welsh Colony and El Carmen (or Patagones). When you notice the difference in those prices no one can be surprised that those who could supply that defect, prefer it should not be supplied. And yet what a blind policy that must be, for such an hindrance to our progress only aids to discourage others from coming. Is it not gaining a penny, and losing a pound? I heard that there are some people here with money who are desirous of forming a company to purchase a steamer adapted for the river and to develop a trade which is destined to make untold change in this part of the world. No doubt a party clique will exert their influence to oppose the formation of a company for that purpose, like other schemes that interfere with old established interests, but those who are in favor of progress will understand the reasons why the opposite exists, and no doubt the company will be formed ere long and the sooner the better the affair takes a practical turn, we say of course. If any British young men are inclined to come hitherto who have any wish to become married, I would say marry before coming, or do not come at all. Much wheat has been lost this year in the valley, for the want of reapers &c. It is rumoured here that 400 soldiers are about coming hitherto, in May next; that would be a step in the right direction and make those who have settled here more content, for the soldiers are supposed to have leave at harvest time to be allowed to render some assistance to have the harvest over better than as things are at present, so we hope it is true.

Some time ago a long paragraph appeared in an English periodical, showing that no Catholic Colony progressed, but I must admit my obtuseness to comprehend the real weight of the arguments. Good land at a nominal price is in abundance to be had here, but methinks some one will respond Yes, but only by going far out of town and in danger of the Indians; true there is some truth in that statement, but then a very few courageous men in addition to what there are at present need not trouble themselves much on that point; the great changes we have witnessed here within the last 6 years are sufficient as an indication to point out that when a few hundreds more of Europeans come hitherto, "those" will cause some thousands more to follow. That a time will come when there will be some tens of thousands of Europeans here, is an incontrovertable statement, but you know, like all true prophesies the time must not be mentioned, yet it will come sooner than those in Europe seem to imagine, owing to their prejudices and want of a more definite idea of the place; already this place is much in advance of the notions they have of it there. Steam has begun to make its influence felt here, but we must "wait a little longer" ere the "World" be convinced of the great resources of this place that are at present dormant, but destined to be developed at a future time. How distant who knows. How soon depends much upon steam communication up the river, the great disideratum at present. Since writing the above last week, yesterday being Sunday and having been to the English Church, we heard the bans of marriage published by the Rev. Dr. Humble M. D. being the first and for the first time in the Protestant Church at Patagones and probably a prelude to many more to follow (perhaps). Having trespassed so much upon your space, I conclude by desiring to see more friends of progress coming to push on here—like the Americans to go ahead.

GWILYM.

THE GERMANS IN RIO GRANDE

"Rio Grande do Sul and its German Colonies." By Michael G. Mulhall. London: Longmans. 1873.

To all who are interested in the various questions concerning emigration, and especially to those whose attention has been attracted to the "pros and cons" of emigration to the Brazils, Mr. Mulhall's account of the German colonies on the Rio Grande, only twenty days from London by steamer, will be not a little useful and interesting. After a short résumé of the conditions of the Brazilian empire, its finances and completed or projected railways, Mr. Mulhall devotes the rest of the volume to the province of Rio Grande do Sul, or San Pedro, and its natural resources and capabilities. With abundant water communication, great and varied mineral wealth, a climate "that an Englishman would consider rather warm, but mild and agreeable compared to that of India," somewhat like that of Algiers, and exceedingly healthy, and the vegetable productiveness naturally to be looked for under such conditions, it is not surprising to find that the forty-three German colonies which have taken root there since the year 1825 are exceedingly prosperous. only two of the earliest of these have had a hard battle for success, because of ill-chosen sites, and even they are now thriving. It is difficult to understand how the recent complaints or deception made by English emigrants to Brazil can have had any good ground, unless either some similar blunder was made, or our colonists were not trained enough to work together like the well-disciplined Germans; or, possibly our compatriots were like a futile Irish colony out there twenty years ago, who called the farina provided for their bread making, "sawdust," and would not eat it. Whatever be the difficulties of settlement in Brazil there remain two facts; first, that a liberal and constitutional government, having recently passed an Act by which slavery will be extinct at the end of the century, is anxious to attract English and German colonists into a vast fertile territory; and secondly, that Germans have found it possible, in great numbers, not only to exist, but to get very wealthy there under even less advantageous conditions than are now offered. The earliest German colony now numbers 60,000 persons, besides having "swarmed" several times, and nothing could exceed the comfort described by Mr. Mulhall as prevailing among them. Catholic and Protestant churches and schools, railways, gas companies, and great business establishments of all sorts attest the progress that has been made, chiefly during the last twenty years; for in the earlier days of these colonies a civil war was raging, and their powers of expansion were of course greatly hampered; and then, also, the first colonists were not so wisely selected as they are now. They were taken hap-hazard, and some who came had so little liking for agriculture, that they sold the allotted share of 150 acres of uncleared land, farming implements, and a right to a daily subsidy for two years, for a bottle of brandy.—Westminster, Review, April, 1873.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Allah is Great! The Port is opened at last, and we may now expect goods, gold, passengers and news to any amount from the dear sister city. Mr. Mitre y Vedia, Oriental Consul, did it all; his note to the National Government opened its eye and the Port. Thanks, Mr. Mitre! You are the man, for Galway!

The bulk of the Niger's mails was delivered on Sunday and yesterday morning. We publish an interesting Letter from Our Own Correspondent in Paris. The newspaper news is stalish, so we abstain from inflicting any of it on our readers. We regret to learn by our private advices that the harvest prospects in the United Kingdom are wretchedly bad, from the old, old cause, Rain, Rain, and more and more Rain. The advance in the Bank of England rate of Discount is very much due to the unsatisfactory cereal prospects. In Ireland the prospect is bad in the extreme.

The Flores Tramway managers have issued a notice that on and after the 15th of this month there will be but one ticket issued for the through journey to or from Flores. By taking subscription tickets a reduction of 20 per cent will be allowed, and the system of 'boletos' is to be abolished. Those who have any had better change them at once, as after the 15th inst. they will not be worth the paper they are printed on, which same is not much. We are rather glad to see the 'boleto' system pitched overboard; it is roundabout, and an intense bore to the Public.

The mail brings the following—"We have just heard of the death of Malon, aged 62, the famous sleight-of-hand performer, who gave representations in the environs of Paris, and whose immense portable theatre attracted such crowds on 'fete' days. He was better known by the name of Tete-de Bois, and his career was a singular one. After having served as a soldier, he was engaged at the Opera-Comique, where he filled for five years the third bass parts. Being carried off by a woman of some fortune, he left with her for Cairo, where he founded an haberdasher's shop, and then migrated to Rio de Janeiro, where he became accountant in a theatre of the second order. There it was that he acquired his talents as a juggler. Having returned to Paris he very soon established a reputation, and realized an independence. He died of inflammation of the chest, and leaves about 12,000 f. a year."

The weather was as mild as milk and water during daylight on Sunday and yesterday, though the nights were cold. The trains and trams all did a splendid business, and had to put on extra cars.

A gentleman, seated in the stalls of a theatre, who was afflicted with remarkably long ears, overheard the jocular remarks of a neighbouring young man, which were by far too loudly expressed. The proprietor of the ears thereat turned round sharply and said, 'Sir, it is true that my ears are very large indeed for a man, but yours are very small indeed for an ass.'

We commend Mr. Riestra's letter, in another column, to the serious attention of our commercial readers. The writer has put his finger on a great and antiquated nuisance which it is everyone's interest to abolish as soon as possible. If we had any kind of a decent 'Punch' in this city the money-bag system would have been killed long since by that keenest of all weapons when scientifically handled, Ridicule. We must not however, if converted to the Clearing House system, carry it too far, as we do most things in the Plate, and take to paying in cheques for a pair of boots, a glass of gin, or a package of paper cigars. The Banks would kick over the traces, Mr. Riestra's limit of $500 m/c is the lowest amount any cheque should be drawn for. There is a capital time coming for gentlemen able for bank clerk's business; triple their present staffs will be required by the banks.

There was a bullock cart block somewhere on the Lacroze line on Sunday, and a couple of dozen cars were brought to a halt in a string before Adam's travelling carriage could be hauled out of the way. Many people thought it was another imbecile case of 200 paper dollars fine for some horse's blinkers being awry, or a driver not having a cracker to his whip, but it was n't, and the traffic was resumed after a slight interruption.

We beg to call the attention of our fair readers to the advertisement, in another column, of the change of residence of Madame Laforque, so widely known to the fair members of the 'haut ton' of this city. Madame L's new premises are certainly the most sumptuous Palace of Fashion yet opened in Buenos Ayres, the four 'salons' devoted to the different branches of that impenetrable mystery, Ladies Dress, being fitted up with the utmost luxury and magnificence. We recommend our fair and fashionable readers to call and inspect those gorgeous show-rooms for themselves, as we are quite unequal to rushing into an adequate description of a place where so many angels are destined to tread.

Daws the Great has received an unusually large batch of the very latest magazines, periodicals, and new books from the States and England by that splendid steamer, the Nigger. There was a rush to his store yesterday, and there'll be another to-day, or we're much mistaken. 'Early to rise,' is the only way to get a good place in the 'queue' at his door.

"An American portrait of Mr. Gladstone.—This is a grave, care-worn looking man; his face bearing the recognised scholarly lines about the lips—with grave, earnest eyes, yet eyes capable of expressing a noblest, fiercest indignation when required. Often has Mr. Disraeli recognised their power. A Conservative at first, Mr. Gladstone soon found his true place in the ranks of the Whigs. His mercantile origin and instincts have made him the greatest financier and Chancellor of the Exchequer of late times in England. But he is much more than a financier: he is an Oxford scholar in its deepest and widest sense. His Economic, his Homeric, and his Church are the marked productions of genius and deep study. His oratory is original, unhesitating, often eloquent, and always to the point. In the sea of Irish politics he has earned his highest honors. But a fatality rests on all who trust themselves in its troubled waters."

Mr. 'Heather's' original poetry in Sunday's issue caused great laughing in town that day. All the doctors want us to tell them who the writer is, we suppose to ask him if he ever tried 'pistols and coffee for two.' They might as well ask us for the remains of the museum, our barometer, or a loan of the 70,000 ounces. Red-hot smoothing irons to the soles of our feet, or being compelled to swallow all the 'dirt,' in Cranwell's or Seedorff's shop would n't wring the real name of 'Heather' from us. In all our vast experience of River Plate original poets. Heather is the only one fit to be called so, and we would n't betray him for anything we know of.

Last week over 1,000 Basques arrived in this port. On Sunday and yesterday the streets were crowded with the new comers gaping about town. More luck to them all! May they all be basking in the sun of prosperity and fortune before 'no time' is about.

"Some of the German papers have published the particulars of an interview between Prince Bismarck and a deputation from what we should call the Liberal-Conservative party on the occasion of the birthday of the former a few days ago. The reply which he gave to the customary 'Many happy returns, with health and prosperity,' was very characteristic. 'My health,' the Chancellor said, depends upon nothing so much as upon the state of public affairs. When things go smoothly I am well, and the prosperity of the German Empire is my best medicine. When its path is beset with briars, when difficulties are heaped in its way, I suffer, and find no rest until they are overcome.' This is no exaggeration, for, in spite of his burly frame and commanding presence, the man of 'blood and iron' possesses a highly nervous and excitable temperament, and is easily upset when matters do not take the course upon which he has set his heart. His 'indispositions,' therefore, may be considered as often having a real political significance, although in a sense somewhat different from that which is usually attributed to them."

A horrible assassination took place at San Andres de Giles on Saturday week. The murderer and his victim were old friends, and while out for a 'paseo' together fell into conversation about that permanent curse of the country—politics. The upshot of their talk on this peppery subject was that both got angry, and one of them suddenly drew a razor and shaved the throat off his unfortunate companion, who expired in two minutes. The assassin was arrested, and is now in jail at 25 de Mayo.

A funny, lugubrious, and possibly untrue story comes to us from Chile. At the Santiago theatre there was lately a prodigy in the shape of a scene shifting Frenchman who absolutely was eccentric enough to love his wife (Oh! tiara avis in terra!) and the fool had long ago told another fool of his acquaintance that on the day of his wife's death he would 'shuffle off' after her by means of a revolver bullet. The wife took it into her pretty head to die one day while her doting 'half' was away from home. On returning and learning that the gem of his 'buzzum' had 'kicked the bucket' he wrote a short note as follows to his friend, who, we suppose, was a coffin-maker, "Make me a cheap 'wooden suit,' for to-morrow I die." So he did, but naturally, as 'Pallida Mors' called on him that evening and saved him the expense of a cartridge to blow out what he probably considered 'his brains.'

We had a telegram from our brother editor yesterday to the effect that he will resume his oar on Thursday morning next. He also sent us a news 'wire,' which will be found in another column.

An American paper gives the following extraordinary case of "Watching and Praying". It may be useful as a hint to Sunday School teachers here:—

"A man whom Dr. Chalmers engaged to manage a disorderly Sunday School kept his eyes wide open during praying, and when a boy thrust a pin into another he marched up the aisle, still praying, and cuffed that boy's ears, and went back again, praying all the way. After that he was master of the situation, for the boys thought that a man who could watch and pray like that could not be put down.

The mail brings the sad intelligence that the vine crop has completely failed in France this year. Here's a chance for our esteemed friend Mr. Wineberg, who can now supply the R P public with Claret and Champagne, and allow them to have the pleasure of drawing his corks in return for that which he has so often experienced in drawing their teeth. "Tit for tat is very good chat."

Peculiar style of Dedication.—Mr. Samuel Plimsoll, M. P. for Derby, has published a volume on 'Our Seamen,' which contains the following unique address:—"Dedicated to the Lady, gracious and kind, who, seeing a Labourer working in the rain, sent him her rug to wrap about his shoulders.'

The Cordoba papers announce the departure for some place on the frontiers of the first contingent of National Guards lately called out. The young men composing it mean to eat Lopez Jordan without salt, it they can catch him, and earn the 100, 00 pats. for doing so. The vice-Governor of Cordoba has resigned. The 'gods' in the solitary theatre of the learned city now amuse themselves by throwing dust (pepper is far better) into the pit and the 'palcos,' to the awful indignation of any respectable people in the house; spitting, throwing potatoes and pulped paper, shouting and kicking also form part of the entertainment—Cordoba does not figure for nothing as 'Paddy last' in Dr. Avellaneda's educational list. Half the women at the 'opiparo' ball on the 25th of May were dressed in street costume, with shawls (Oh Heavings!) three-eighths of them as it they had just got out of bed, and the remaining eighth in some kind of excuse for ball dress (A local paper says all this). As for the men, oh, no! we never mention them.

Professor Lessing was occasionally so absentminded that once he knocked at his own door, when the servant, not recognising her master, looked out of the window and said, 'the Professor is not at home.' 'Oh, very well,' replied Lessing, composedly walking away. 'I will call again.'

A drunken policeman caused some unpleasantness to the travellers in the Mendez Calle Belgrano line, at 9, p.m., on Sunday. The officer of the law got his horse badly entangled in the forepart of the car, from a positive reluctance to 'move on,' or even out of the way. In his indignation he drew his sword, and commanded the 'mahogany coloured catif' who drove the car to stop. The passengers all cleared, with the exception of 'our ubiquitous,' who stayed at the risk of life and limb, to see the squabble out. Nor had he long to wait. Some of the bobbies summoned by whistle to the scene, 'twigged' at once where the fault was, and politely insisted on seeing home their colleague sately.

Poor, dear, old Barracas is young again. This maiden aunt of our great capital has been rejuvenated by the magic touch of Peeler and Co. A few years past, and neglected by the fashionables, she sat alone and dejected, whilst her younger and more attractive sisters counted their suitors by the score. What harm if in a moment of envy (inseparable from the dear sex) she called on Art to supply those charms which cruel nature had denied her. "Beautiful for ever," that's Peeler's motto, and well has he fulfilled it. The task was indeed a herculean one: nobly has it been accomplished. For regularity of pavement and artistic arrangements of trees, Calle Larga stands first. So says Sr. Lavalle, the engineer that received the works from Mr. Shepherd on Saturday. Go it again, Mr. S., at the Lomas, Temperley, or Quilmes, the would be rivals of the peerless village of the plain.

Popping the Question in the American Style. The love-sick swain advances with an imploring look, and, accosting the idol of his heart, he says, 'Will you, my dear, underwally, yourself so as to keep company with me?' If the nymph approves the reply is, 'No underwallyment at all.'

Ruy Blas, the favourite opera of last season, is announced for to-morrow night at the Opera House, with la Marziali as the heroine and Bulterini as Ruy Blas. There should be a full house.

The new French Minister, M. Ducros, has arrived in the Niger. We beg to salute him, and hope H. E. will like the South American Athens.

One of the results of having a young medical woman as city physician in Springfield is that a young gentleman of that city has had himself vaccinated by her twenty-one times within a few weeks.

Very Particular.—A member of the Croydon School Board the other day denounced a proposal for hanging up the commandments in the school-rooms, on the ground that the seventh suggested bad ideas.

The Custom-house at Rosario has been robbed of two sacks of rice and some other seedy things. The northern frontier of Santa Fe has been 'organized' by Colonel Obligado. Mr. Joel arrived safe up, and Norma is being played by Escalante, Poccaleti and others at the theatre. Dr. Iriondo arrived in Rosario on Saturday from Santa Fe, but nobody knows on what errand. Robberies are very frequent. The Mercurio announces that 120 'German' immigrants just returned from Paraguay are now in the Rosario Asilo. Can any of the Lincolnshire Farmers be amongst them? It is now and then slightly difficult to distinguish between an Anglo-Saxon and a Teuton.

Not much news in the tons of Provincial paper and printing ink received yesterday. In Rioja a bit of a scrimmage in connection with the irrepressible Presidential election was considered highly probable. In Tucuman they are thinking of building a theatre. Have'nt much to think about.

A Naples contemporary styles Mr. James Gordon Bennett, of the New York Herald, who is now in Naples, the discoverer of the discoverer of the discoverer.

Mr. Carlyle neatly styles the Dublin University Bill "an amorphous botch." The unlearned may be informed that amorphous is derived from Murphy, synonymous of potato or Pat.

The National Senate met on Saturday at 2 o'clock. The Finance Committee reported on Dr. Olguin's petition for exemption of duties on materials for the Belgrano Gas Co. The State of Siege Bill was sent up from the Deputies as amended. The National Guard Bill was about to be discussed when the Minister of the Interior asked for a postponement of the debate, which was acceded to. The House rose at a quarter past 2 o'clock having had a hard day's work of exactly fifteen minutes duration. No constitutions could stand this terrific strain.

The news from the seat of scrimmage yesterday was not much. There is a good deal of mystery as to whether head or harp is winning at Parana, where the rebels still stick like leeches. Some say that the citadel is short of ammunition. The Jordanites continue their throat-cutting outrages. A 'sympathetic foreigner' named Celestino Grogean [we hope this is not a misnomer for Grogan, which is an Irish name—but then no decent Celt ever owned such a Christian name as Celestine] had his windpipe severed at Colon, where he was widely known and much esteemed. At Tala the torch and the knife have done fearful work, and the alarm is dreadful.

Georgia has a hale and hearty citizen, who has been struck by thirty-two Minie balls, one mortar shell, one shrapnel, one three-inch conican, struck by lightning, bitten by a rattlesnake, and chased by a mad dog.

The last number of the Anales de Agricultura is full of interesting matter for farmers and stock breeders. We cannot too strongly recommend our camp friends to patronize this excellent publication.

The crisis is not over yet, still our native colleagues are beginning to flag on the subject, and have, evidently, almost written themselves up the spout, so we may hope for an improvement in a day or two.

One of the little pleasantries of the 'gods' at the Dublin Opera House consists in throwing on to the stage a bouquet to which a piece of twine is attached. When the prima donna goes to pick up the nosegay, it is suddenly drawn up again, amidst the roars of the 'deities.'

The Berlin Chemical Society have discovered a few 'simples,'—for instance, 'sulphobenzophenone,' which yields 'tretraphenylethylene;' 'isobutylic chloroxy-carbonate,' then 'isobutylurethane' and 'butylxanthate of potassium' have also been obtained.

LORD MARJORIBANKS OF LADYKIRK.

Last Friday an Edinburgh paper gave currency to a rumour that Mr. Robertson of Ladykirk, M. P. for Berwickshire and Lord-Lieutenant of the county, would shortly be elevated to the peerage, and we are now in a position to say that the statement is correct. The Prime Minister has offered a peerage to Mr. Robertson, who has accepted the same; and he will be created a Peer with the title of "Lord Marjoribanks of Ladykirk." With characteristic regard for the interests of his constituents, Mr. Robertson has considered it to be his duty to request Mr. Gladstone not to complete the matter till the eve of a general election, so as to save the constituency all the trouble and inconvenience of two elections probably within six months.

Mr. Gladstone has done a graceful act in conferring a peerage on the honourable member for Berwickshire. It is a compliment to the Liberal electors of the county who in 1832 returned Mr. Charles Marjoribanks, and who again fought the battle successfully with Mr. Robertson in 1859, and it is particularly graceful that in the title of the new Peer the honoured name of Marjoribanks has obtained recognition. By Mr. Robertson himself this honour at the hands of a Liberal Government has been richly deserved. Nobly were his exertions seconded by the Berwickshire Liberals in 1859, but it is universally admitted that no man except Mr. Robertson could have rallied the Liberal forces and led them to victory. Fourteen years have elapsed since then, and Mr. Robertson has enjoyed his honours without disturbance, a fact which has been greatly owing to his generous and honourable treatment of the county without respect of parties, his thorough knowledge of business, and his prompt attention to any matter affecting the interests of any part of the county. Blessed with an ample fortune, Mr. Robertson has freely given money where it was wanted for any useful purpose; and at all times he has taken the lead in any public enterprise, as became the member of Parliament and the Queen's representative as Lord-Lieutenant. Mr. Robertson is now advancing in years, and cannot without risk attend the protracted sittings in the Lower House as he has been wont to do both from a sense of duty to the constituency, and for his own pleasure. It is therefore peculiarly appropriate that he should be transferred by Mr. Gladstone, of whom he is a great admirer and an intimate friend, to the serene atmosphere of the House of Lords, where he may now enjoy the rest to which, after a busy and eventful life, he is amply entitled. We heartily rejoice in this recognition of Mr. Robertson's valuable political services; and we feel assured that even those who honourably, but unsuccessfully, opposed his election in 1859, will witness with pleasure this crowning glory of his public career. It is a consummation upon which every Berwickshire man, irrespective of party, should rejoice, and as Lord Marjoribanks of Ladykirk will be the only Liberal Peer, while eight Conservative Peers hold property in the county, the balance is still largely in favour of the Tories. Mr. Robertson has ample means to sustain his new honour; his fine appearance will be conspicuous even in the august assembly of the Peers; and his practical wisdom, now well matured with advancing years, will give weight to his counsels in the House of Lords. We feel assured that our readers will join with us in heartily wishing that for years to come Mr. Robertson may enjoy his well-deserved honour as Lord Marjoribanks of Ladykirk.—Scotch Paper.

ON 'CHANGE.

June 2nd, 1873.

Ounces	400
Sovereigns	122½
Patacons	25
National Bonds	77
Cedulas	89½

The Bond market ruled very firm to-day and upward, whilst the Cedula market fell off. Money rules as tight as ever, and there was much said about a circular sent round to the houses about the crisis, which appeared as an article in yesterday's Nacion. The best news on 'Change to-day was the STANDARD telegram announcing that three steamers leave Montevideo to-night crowded with passengers; this put every one in good humour, and reminds us of old times.

The sales in the Bond market were—

For 30th June, 10 000, at 77½.

In the liquidation 5,000 were sold cash at 77.

Cedulas—

5000 Series A cash at 90½.
5000 " A " at 90.
10000 " A 30 June at 90½.
10000 " A " at 90½.
10000 " A " at 90½.
7000 " A 3 June at 90½.

In the liquidation 10,000 were sold at 89½, and subsequently 6000 more were offered at 89½; no buyers; market closed very weak.

In exchange nothing as yet done, drawers at 49½, and Bank paper at 49. Nothing passed.

The sale of a square of land in the ... French convent near the South plaza was announced to-day, the site is 17,000 varas and between Samuel and Rincon, sold for 1,600,000 m/c.

The death of Mr. Banovitche, of Fray Bentos, was announced on 'Change. Deceased was a well known dealer up there—also agent for the steamers, and lately a saladerista. It appears he shot himself on Saturday night.

The Montevidean telegram gave as follows—

Home Debt, 58 cash, and 61 for the end of the month.

Extraordinary Debt, 96½.

Progreso, 54 cash, and 56 for the end of the month.

Messrs. Torroba Hermanos, the very successful country almaceneros, have opened a branch house in the Capilla del Señor.

The sale of a fine house in Flores is announced; the house is situated on a site 60x60, and is of modern construction some 11 fine rooms cost about 300 000 m/c, and is at the corner street to the rear of Mr. Samuel's former residence; the whole finca has been sold for 515,000 m/c, Mr. Silva purchaser; this sale is important at the moment as property of every description is difficult of sale at present.

There seems to be nothing whatever known of the American mail, many believe that it has not come down from Rio at all, whilst others think that it may have come down in the Galgo.

From the 5th inst. the Argentine Tramway Co. changes its rates to Flores, charging the full route 5 m/c either way; this is a most inconvenient arrangement, and it appears has been adopted owing to the opposition line started by Messrs Lacrosse, and which we understand will be continued to the Almagro Railway station and subsequently to Caballito; although the residents thereabouts will doubtless be a gainer when the two lines are running to Caballito, at all it is difficult to imagine that the population of that suburb will be sufficient to support two lines of tramways, and the business like everything else in the Plate will be overdone. There are at present 4 lines of tramways plying between the city and the Plaza Once, however great the trade of that market, it is fully taxed to support so many distinct lines, the result is that the public has to pay two dollars when if there were but two lines running the fare would certainly be down to one dollar.

A merchant in the hide business has favored us with the following—

"KANGAROO AND ALIGATOR LEATHER.

"Hides of kangaroo have been imported into St. Francisco from Australia, and examined by tanning; the leathers thence made are very thin and tender, and much more supple than calf leather, and will stand rain better. Alligator hides from Mexico and Central America are frequently used for strong and waterproof shoes and boots."

The question about the National Bank is now the question of the day, and some of the most experienced men in this market consider that the Directors, in order to simplify the matter of subscriptions, and to avoid all questions likely to arise out of over-subscription to the stock, should publish a notice in the papers calling upon all parties who subscribed to ratify, or, if they so desire, to withdraw their deposits. This will, of course, at once bring down the subscriptions to within the twenty millions and relieve the Directors of any trouble or question on that head; further more, when the subscription list to the stock was first opened the money market was in very different position to what it is at present, and since the stock has been subscribed for so much in excess, it would be prudent on the part of the board instead of making arbitrary allotments to give to each subscriber the right to rectify his subscription, and alter it to whatever figure his circumstances will allow in times like the present. We throw out this hint to the board, and hope it will not be lost sight of, as it will place the matter on a better and sounder foundation.

The following is the latest received by the packet respecting metals—

"Metals.—There is a fair amount of business now taking place in this market, and, although individual transactions are small, still the aggregate makes about a full average; and, with a little more ease in the prices of our mineral productions, still further improvement in the demand might reasonably be looked for.

"Scotch pig iron warrants have been in moderate inquiry throughout the week, closing with prices rather easier. With the opening of the spring shipping trade a decrease has been made in the stock at the public stores, and this may be expected to continue.

"The shipments for the past week are reported as 16,128 tons against 25,025 tons in the corresponding period last year. In Middlesborough many of the smelters are busily engaged in completing old contracts, and for present delivery are averse to making quotations. Makers adhere firmly to full rates for manufactured iron, and in consequence new business is restricted. There is not much doing in copper, and values of Chili bars are lower, and British is quiet. In tin an official reduction has been made in the list price for English ingots, and quotations for Straits have been lower and very irregular, closing with an improvement from the lowest point. The demand for lead still continues in excess of the supply, and in consequence rates are very strong, with every prospect of a improvement. There is not much doing spelter but no alteration has been made in prices. The production of Silesian spelter for the year 1872 is returned as 32,501¾ tons, which, although slight y in excess of the preceding year, is considerably below the average annual make of the past ten years."

Telegrams arrived from Parana on Saturday night announcing hard fighting up there. Jordan, it appears, was determined to take the town, but the garrison was too strong, and beat the rebels back with considerable loss. The Minister of War must have arrived there on Sunday, and as the troops are now coming down from the Interior, the government will soon have a large force at its command. The government of Cordoba has acted with great dispatch in getting ready the troops. The National Government has chartered the steamer Amisis, at the rate of 2,400 pats. per month, and in case of loss agrees to pay 20,000 pats. to the owners of the steamer.

From the 1st of June all quarantine at Argentine ports was abolished; the decree was signed on Saturday evening, and at the same time the National Government published a decree ratifying the quarantine conference that is now about to be held in Montevideo, being represented by two delegates from Brazil, two from the Banda Oriental, and two from this Republic. It is to be hoped they will arrive at some proper regulations.

The Government Committee of Engineers has just sent in a report to the Minister of Hacienda on the port works; they state that the works are going on favourably and that in the fortnight they have excavated 2'583 cubit metres, giving a total of 4097 cubit metres excavated up to the present.

A terrible event has occurred at San Nicolas on board the brigantine Celestina, which was loading beef at one of the Saladeros. A fight occurred between two sailors; they fought with knive: one stabbed the other and threw his body into the river.

There was a rumour on 'Change to-day to the effect that Governor Echague is about to resign. This is important news if true.

Yesterday the tramway cars commenced running on the 1st section of the Belgrano line; the track seems to be well laid as the cars ran very smoothly.

The Southern railway telegraph is now being brought into town, and will soon be ready for service. This is a move in the right direction.

The pilot boat Anna has been placed on the Banco Chico by the port captain at a charter of 200 paper dollars a day.

Two young men have just applied to Congress for a pension of a hundred pats a month each to enable them to proceed to England to study thoroughly the telegraph business. They promise to bring out to the River Plate all the newest improvements.

The Provincial Government has just named Mr. Edward Dillon, Juez de Pas at the partido de las Heras; Mr. Dillon is a wealthy Irish estanciero in the district and a prominent member of the St. Patrick's Society.

The French packet Niger has brought 418 passengers, nearly all Basques. The Italian steamer Pampa brought out about the same number; both steamers have brought out full cargos. The Havre steamer Moreno only got away yesterday; she was detained by the lighters. The Valparaiso mail steamer due to-day in Montevideo en route for Liverpool is the Araucania.

An article written by Mr. Riestra, on the use of cheque, and their great convenience to commerce was the best thing that appeared in the Spanish newspapers on Sunday morning; we published it in another column.

The Echo of Cordoba announces the failure of the Cordoba loan in England; we knew all about this some time ago, but prefered to say nothing about it. The deposit money we believe was forfeited.

On next Friday Mr. Nazar will hold a great ram auction. Estancieros who want to secure good animals ought to attend the sale, to-morrow Rodriguez sells at the Huergo deposits by order of the French Consul 350 bar. of sugar.

To-day the auction of Mr. Beutifehr's property was announced to come off in the patios of the Banco Hipotecario; the property, we hear, was valued at some 30 or 40 thousand pats, and the amount of the mortgage is only 5,000. There was not a single bid we hear for the property which may be owing to the fact that the Mortgagor raised a point of law. Respecting the sale of land in Cordoba by order of the Provincial Bank we have not as yet heard the result.

There is much enquiry on 'Change to know what has become of Mr. Rom's project, which the majority of the brokers are anxious to see passed; others, however, prefer the scheme of Sr. Riestra both projects appear to have been shelved, although they were intended to relieve the present stringency in the money market.

DEATH.

On the 29th of May, in Calle Corrientes, Mary Ann Locsin, wife of Mr. William Gunther, after a long and painful illness, regretted by all who knew her; aged 25 years. R.I.P.

The Crisis.

The crisis in the Cognac Market is now at its height. Barran and Briet hold the market, being the sole Agents of Dupuy's famed Brandy in the Plate. The Brandy tightness is complained of by all the hotel keepers and corliteros in town, and until a few more clerks are put on at the Custom-house, a returning ease in the Brandy Market cannot be looked for.

SAVINGS BANK
BANK MAUA AND C O.
101--Calle Cangallo--103
BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current is now so generally felt and appreciated in the great emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo, and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depository for their savings.

The sums deposited in that very important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks artisans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in immoral gambling, in lotteries, and other frivolities.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. of this city, following the laudable example of their firm in Montevideo, has the same facilities in this city, and has opened a Savings Bank at No. 103 Calle Cangallo from Nine a.m. till Three p.m. every day, for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned, Sundays and holidays excepted.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interes will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighborhood.

Buenos Ayres, 2nd January, 1867.

P. P. MAUA & Co.,

M. A. DE FREITAS AMORIM

CONDITIONS.

First--The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty-five Dollars currency or one Silver Dollar upwards.

Second—The interest allowed is six per cent. (6 p. 2) per annum, which is liquidated every six months.

Fourth—Once the money deposited exceeds twenty-five thousand dollars currency, or one thousand dollars silver, the depositor, if he wish can open an account current, according to the rules established by the Bank.

Fifth—In case the depositor loses his pass book it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.

Bristol's sarsaparilla

Is prepared in the most scientific manner, by thoroughly educated chemists and Druggists, who have had many years' experience. It is not a simple extract from one article, but is compounded of extracts from a number of Roots, Herbs Barks, and Leaves, all of which are possessed of some particular virtue or power in curing the diseases that have their course in the blood and humors; these different vegetable extracts are combined in such a way as to retain, in so full strength, the special curative virtue possessed by each. The root of the Sarsaparilla plants found in Honduras, is that which we use in this preparation; it is the kind which all medical men esteem most. About fifty per cent. of Bristol's Sarsaparilla consists of the concentrated extract, the remainder, as above stated being composed of extracts from other powerful, cleansing and healing vehetable substances. It does not contain any thing that is dagerous or injurious to health, and in this, as in nearly every other respect, is entirely different from all other preparations sold under the name of Sarsaparilla.

By having our own agents at the places where the various roots, drugs, herbs and plants, composing our medicines, are produced, we are enabled to exercise that constant care in selection which insures uniformity of excellence, and we spare no money and no effort to procure the best—and only the best—of every article entering into their composition; and it is with the most abiding confidence we say, to be sick or all nations and all countries, that in Bristol's Sarsaparilla you have a remedy more reliable than any before offered to you, and which will no disappoint you in the cure of

Salt Rheum, Tetter, Scald Head,
Syphilis, or Veneral Disease,
Nervous and General Debility,
Old Sores, Ulcers, Tumors,
Abscesses, Boils, Eruptions
Scrofula or King's Evil,
Female Derangements,
White Swellings,
Fever and Ague,
Chills and Fever, & Dumb Ague.

As a means of building up the constitution that has been broken down by the excessive use of Mercury, iron, or other Minerals, our Sarsaparilla will be found most excellent, and can be administered with safety to the weakest patients. As a purifier of the blood and humors, in the Spring and early Summer, it will be found unfailing. It can be taken safely at seasons, rainy or dry. For some of the above diseases, the use of the Sarsaparilla must be continued a considerable time, especially for those that are hereditary or constitutional in their nature—such as Scrofula: but a faithful compliance with the directions will always relieve and mitigate, and in a great majority of cases will effect a complete cure. It will also be found in all of the above diseases, that a cure will be greatly hasten by using our Bristol's Sugar-coated Pills, in moderate doses, in connection with the Sarsaparilla; they carry off large quantities of morbific or diseased matter set free in the system by the Sarsaparilla, and in this way facilitate the return to rmal functional operations —cj— 46

New Patent R.R. Grease
YELLOW GREASE

Manufactured and Patented by RICHARD GAMBLE.

Suitable only for this Climate and Not for Europe.

It is manufactured to suit Summer, Winter and Spring, and is only used for Railways, Tramways and Carts, Bullock Waggons, &c.

It consists of Nine different fluid oils and solidified by a chemical process. It will resist the hottest sun, and will not get into a liquid or fluid state. It is only when the action of the axles commences it becomes a rich creamy fluid, and when the action stops its again solidifies.

It is of a suitable consistency, of good lasting power, attended with but little increase of temperature even at the highest speeds, and leaves but the smallest residue in the axle boxes. A grease which is too firm will remain comparatively solid in the box, and allow the axle to become hot, whilst on the other hand one that is too thin becomes exhausted by a few miles running.

This Grease is of more importance than at first sight appears; for while the grease account a railway companies forms no inconsiderable itet of expenditure, the waste of motive power and wear and tear of plant entailed by the use of unsuitable grease is enormous.

The merits of the Grease, in its general utility as a
and also for its
CHEAPNESS,
are shewn, when compared with other kinds hitherto used, that are entirely useless for any purpose but that of lubrication.

It is therefore much less liable to be pilfered and misapplied than tallow, lard, neatsfoot oil, potro oil, rape oil or gallipoli oil.

These oils always command a ready market if pilfered, a circumstance which induced the principal railway companies in England to adopt Yellow Grease for their protection and manufacture to suit European climate.
